

Camden Learning Services 2019-21

Introduction

Dear Colleagues,

I am delighted to introduce the new Camden Learning Services brochure for the financial year 2019-21. This new offer encompasses four key strands of Camden Learning;

- School Improvement offer
- Camden City Learning Centre
- Governing Body Clerking Service
- Complaints Support and Advice Service.

One of Camden Learning's key partnership promises to create opportunities for every teacher to enjoy teaching and keep improving. We fulfil this promise by acting on evidence, listening to feedback and reinventing our offer to ensure that every school gets the best possible chance to further develop their teaching and support staff. Based on feedback from schools, we will be removing Learning Blocks to create a more streamlined and transparent payment system for the School Improvement offer based on cash. This will ensure that schools can track their training and consultancy purchases more easily, with better oversight on how their money is being spent, while retaining the flexibility and value for money of the existing offer.

We are asking for a two-year commitment from schools on service sign up. This ensures that we can freeze the cost for two financial years, and provide assurance to our members that there will be no sudden inflation. If you are opting for the Standard or Premium School Improvement offer, the upfront payment you make entitles you to 10 or 15% off our services and training.

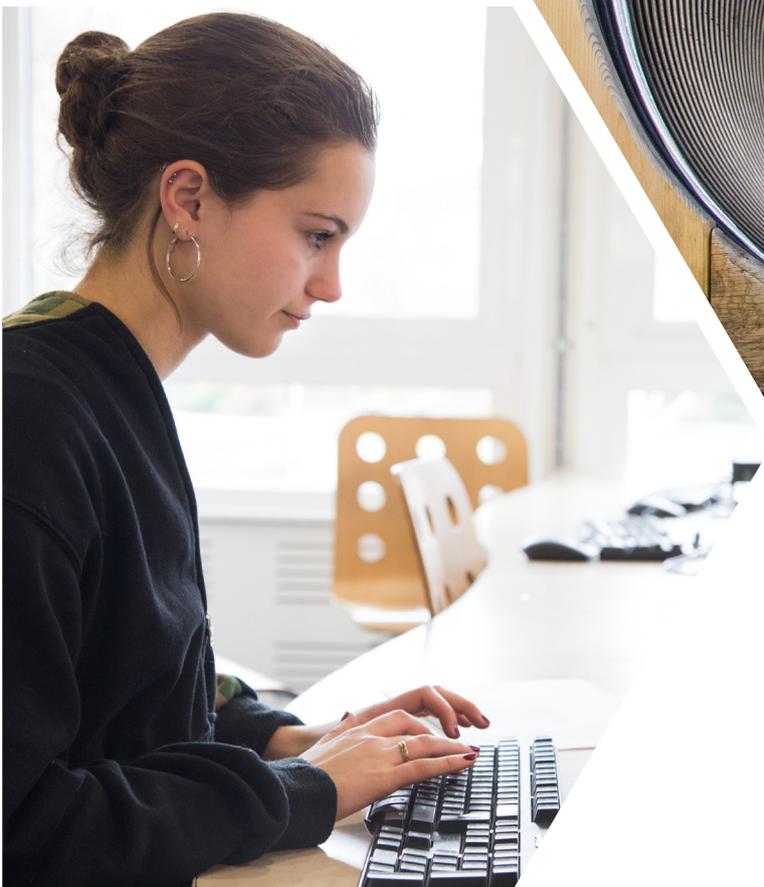

The additional membership benefits listed on page 4, are available to all member schools free of charge. However, the overall level of service provided by Camden Learning, while supported by the commission from the London Borough of Camden, can only be sustained with income from schools, and your upfront commitment is crucial to maintaining and improving our overall offer.

Within this brochure are four different service offers, we ask you to let us know your sign up preferences by emailing CustomerSupport@camdenlearning.org.uk by Friday 15th March. Please note, these services are payable via invoice, which will be sent to schools in the first months of the new financial year.

Jon Abbey - Managing Director, Camden Learning

Complaints Support and Advice Services

“The Complaints Service is the best money I have spent on an SLA. The team are incredibly knowledgeable and professional. When I have been faced with very difficult and complex complaints they have been the person at the end of the phone with clear advice, practical support and the ability to really listen and be there for me
Camden Headteacher”

Complaints are often difficult and complex, with a legal framework that makes large demands on school leaders and governors. The changes to the DfE Best Practice document in January 2019 will result in changes to the way complaints should be handled and brings increased demands on governors in particular.

The service provides specialist advice and support to schools staff and governors in dealing with complaints. This includes detailed advice on drafting responses, support with vexatious complaints and guidance on managing investigations. The service will also provide advice on setting up and running governor complaints panels, including support with identifying independent governors and with writing responses. The service will also include an updated model policy and a set of templates for responses. The package includes an annual governor training session and will include a briefing for Heads and senior leaders on the new toolkit, while in-school training for staff and governors is available on request. Responses to queries will normally be responded to within two school working days.

This service was previously coupled with the Data Protection Officer Service and is now being sold as a standalone by Camden Learning. The service is led and primarily delivered by Owen Rees, Schools Information and Governance Consultant.
